How did the Fund perform?

For the period of May 1, 2025 to April 30, 2026, the Applied Finance Dividend Fund Investor Class (the "Fund") returned 20.20%.

In comparison, the Morningstar US Market Total Return Index returned 30.96% and the Morningstar US Large Mid Value Total Return Index returned 23.44% for the same period.

What key factors influenced performance?

US stocks rose strongly from May 2025 through January 2026 as fears over tariffs dissipated. March 2026 saw declines as war in Iran and fears over energy prices dominated news cycles. However, stocks rebounded sharply in April, with one of the highest return months in recent years.

The performance of the Morningstar US Market Total Return Index was strongest in the Information Technology and Communication Services sectors. During the 12 months ending April 30, 2026, Growth stocks slightly outperformed Value stocks.

The Fund's holdings focus on dividend income and capital appreciation. The Fund's emphasis on dividend-paying stocks lowered performance relative to the Morningstar US Market Total Return Index. Financials, Health Care and Energy sectors were leading contributors to the Fund's performance, while Information Technology, Communication Services and Consumer Discretionary sectors were leading detractors relative to the Morningstar US Market Total Return Index. Underperformance was generally due to sector allocation.
